TO TAKE NO ACTION ON JUDICIAL RECALL

Assembly Refuses Introduction of Resolution or Amendment for Recall Judges—Too Busy

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, May 21.—Assemblyman Anderson offered a joint resolution providing for a constitutional amendment for the recall of judges. The state control of fire insurance ratings is proposed in the L. L. The fight for the bill was led by Johnson and against it by Schmitzer. The senate today engaged the Teasdale bill making it a misdemeanor for a pool or billiard room owner to permit minors to play billiards or pool. Senator Huston claimed the bill was too dry.

The Gosdard bill prohibiting the sale or giving away of liquor on school grounds was killed by the senate.

ORDER A REDUCTION OF TWENTY PER CENT IN EXPRESS RATES

Railroad Commission Announces Its Decision Carrying Important Changes in Wisconsin Schedule.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., May 21.—Changes of express rates of sweeping importance were ordered today by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission in its decision in the case brought by the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' association. By an order of the commission, every express company operating in Wisconsin is included in the new rates of the ruling. The average reduction ordered are about 20 per cent.

As the order sets no date for its becoming effective, the new rates will go into effect twenty days from today as provided by law.

The hundred-pound basing rates between points are considerably altered, and the graduate scales on which the charges for the various weights are computed are completely changed.

The decision is the result of several years of investigation by the commission of express rates not only in Wisconsin but throughout the country. Particular attention was given to the scheme of rates proposed by the interstate commerce commission, and the rates ordered by the Wisconsin commission are designed to bring the interstate rates ordered by the national commission.

Railroad Mileage Basis. The scales fixing the relative charges for shipments of different weight are the same as those proposed by the interstate commerce commission, although the method of stating the basing rates between points are different. In the new Wisconsin schedule the basing hundred-pound scale is changed from a fifty-cent minimum in steps of ten cents for each twenty miles up to 200 miles, and then by longer steps up to a maximum of $2.20 for distances of 400 miles.

The commission's scheme of having the same rate to apply between all points in two blocks or sub-blocks was rejected for the mileage method. However, by the commission's order, the reduction in rates with distance is made such that the reduction resulting from the rates ordered by the commission is practically the same as would be effected by Wisconsin's order.

The most important changes in the rates arise from the change in the graduate scale. Under the official graduate scale, now in force, the scale, starting with a minimum of 25 cents increased by five cent steps and for all the scales most commonly applied, the rate on a 65-pound package was a rate of 100 cents, and for several scales even as great for fifty pounds as for 100 pounds.

Milwaukee-Janesville Rate. Under the rates ordered by the commission, the minimum rate is 100 pounds and the increases up to 100-pound rate are evenly distributed over all the different weights. The effect of this change is to make a drastic cut in the charges on the smaller shipments which constitute the bulk of business, and leave the charges for the larger shipments comparatively unchanged.

The present and proposed rates between Milwaukee and Janesville illustrate the change. Compared with the present rate, the new rates ordered constitute an increase of 7 percent on a 75-pound package, a decrease of 17 percent on 100-pound package, and of 35 percent on five pounds. The new rate for 100 pounds between Milwaukee and Janesville is the same as the present rate on 75 pounds.

The case was originally prosecuted through the Merchants and Manufacturers' association by Walter Drew of Madison, now deputy attorney general. The commission's decision has been ready for some months, but its announcement was delayed awaiting compilation to be made by the interstate commerce commission on interstate zone rates including Wisconsin.

The order will go into effect on June 9. Under the Teasdale bill passed by the present legislature, if any attempt is made to hold up any decision of the commission, the express companies will be required to give a bond and make a refund on all old rates charged pending the final termination of the litigation if the decision is sustained.

HAVE YOU SOMETHING TO SELL TO THE PUBLIC

If so, do you tell the public about it? If you do, how do you do it? And what sort of reputation is back of the merchandise you are offering?

The answers to these questions may spell success or failure to many a merchant.

From an intimate association with a wide circle of concerned merchants, we venture to say: "The quickest and surest way to reach the public is through the columns of a dependable daily newspaper."

Like THE GAZETTE—one that has a high standing in the community it serves, and has the confidence of its readers.

The most dependable articles sold today are those to which the manufacturer is not afraid to attach his label—that is to say his reputation.

Retail merchants are now joining hands with the manufacturer, and the public is thus doubly guaranteed against inferiority.

The combination of manufacturer and retailer advertising means success to them both with the maximum of satisfaction to the purchaser.

Pastor of Norwegian Lutheran Church for Nineteen Years.—Fine Rec-

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Orfordville, May 21.—On Saturday, May 17th, the large congregation of the Lutheran church of Orfordville gathered at the church to say "farewell and Godspeed" to their pastor, Rev. O. J. Kvale, and his wife, who are leaving the charge of the church for a year's absence. The members address, and Rev. J. Linnevold, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church at Edgerton, followed with appropriate remarks. Rev. Ramseth then, on behalf of the Orfordville congregation, presented their departing pastor with a farewell token of love and respect in the shape of and other invited friends, had prepared a program for this farewell event, with A. C. Ingvaldson presiding.

Rev. Ivar Ramseth, pastor of the East church, delivered the opening

ORFORDVILLE LUTHERAN CHURCH CHOIR.

a purse of money, after which Rev.
Kvale spoke to his people on his past labors and his future plans.
There were several musical numbers and an elaborate luncheon was served in the church parlors. The combination of the perfect day and the very large attendance of interested friends made the felicitous occasion one long to be remembered.
Rev. Kvale was born in Decatur, Iowa, February 8, 1869. He graduated from Luther College in 1890 and from the three years' theological course at the Lutheran seminary in St. Paul in 1895. For one year he taught English and Latin in Bruffard Academy, Portland, North Dakota.
In 1894 he was called to the Lutheran charge in Orfordville, and has labored here since.

On June 13, 1895, Mr. Kvale's marriage took place, to Miss Ida Simley, of Portland, North Dakota. To this union six interesting children were born. Mrs. Kvale herself has not only been a source of inspiration to her husband, but she has labored with him. Her absence will be keenly felt. Though the cares of her home and family were many, she health with them admirably, and her high moral influence was felt, besides, in all the affairs of the church.
Her unfailing thoughtfulness for others and sweet charm of manner have made a place for her in the hearts that will remain warm for her return.

The church is the heart of a community, and to the Norwegians especially, the church stands as not only their religious home but as the center of culture and interest. In the church the children receive much along educational lines.
For nineteen years Rev. Kvale has ministered to this congregation and his whole-hearted devotion to the church and its tenets has made its decisive imprint. On account of the increasing number of Lutherans who do not understand Norwegian church services are held in both English and Norwegian. Mr. Kvale speaking either language with equal facility.

The Orfordville church until 1897, and now includes the church at Albany. Mr.
Kvale has also made various lecture tours on occasions.

The family is instrumental, both
Mr. and Mrs. Kvale possessing singing voices of exceptional quality.
Mrs. Kvale's voice a mezzo soprano of much beauty, has been of great assistance to her husband in his work with the choir. Mr. Kvale's musical talent is of high order. He has studied voice culture in Chicago with Signor Mareschalchi, and later with Frank Webster. This instruction, combined with his natural ability, has been of much value to the church by reason of the organizing and skilled training of its two choirs.
The senior choir, composed of twenty-five voices, shows the results of constant and arduous training, in its always sure and sympathetic rendering of the difficult church music. The song services given by the combined choirs are events of importance.

Mr. Kvale has frequently been selected by musical societies presenting oratorios, to sing the tenor roles in "The Creation" and the "Messiah," on account of the tonal purity of his voice, a golden tenor, and his technical skill and understanding in its use.
Side from his devotion to the interests of the Orfordville church, which has steadily increased in membership and strength during his pastorate, for years Rev. Kvale has lent

The unit of our political organization is the county. That which a cell is to the body, the county is to the state.

On the other hand, the unit of our commercial organization is the town. What the county is to the state, the town is to commerce. As the state could not exist without the county, so commerce could not live without the town.

Now, when we swell up in the chest and proclaim ourselves American Citizens, free to buy the necessities anywhere within the land, we forget one essential fact. We forget that as we receive all our social benefits from the taxes we pay to the county, we get our material benefits from the purchases we make in the town.

The roads, the bridges, the courts and the schools are all results derived from the money we pay into the county treasury. The home and the occupation, the wealth and prosperity, work and pleasure, amusement and comfort, all come as the direct result of earning and spending our money in the town.

Let, now, those men who think they are robbed of their rights when asked to buy home-made goods in preference to all others, imagine the conditions that would be created if each taxpayer paid his taxes to any county of his fancy.
Some counties would have millions to spend for fine roads and institutions, while others would be compelled to disband for lack of support. The picture that this condition would produce is just exactly like the one now representing our commercial condition—some towns big and prosperous, while others lean and hungry.

If it is just and proper that a man should pay his taxes into the treasury of the county in which he holds his property, it should follow that he ought to spend his money in the town, and for the products of the town, in which he secures his livelihood.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCorty

It must have peeved the veteran W. A. Larned, not to have been placed on the representative American tennis team which is to meet the Australians. Larned has done some creditable tennis for many seasons.

Hooper, a pitcher for the New Haven team in the Eastern Association, pitched a no-hit, no-run game Wednesday against the Pittsfield club. It was the second time this season that he had shut out Pittsfield without a blemish.

Tex Ramsdell, a former sprinter of the University of Pennsylvania, and for the past two years, director of athletics at Carnegie Tech, has accepted the position as director of athletics in the University of Texas. Ramsdell is a graduate of that institution. While a Penn athlete, Ramsdell made two trips around the world and won the English sprint championship two years in succession. No other American has done this, except Arthur Duffy.

Because it interferes with his work, Martin Sheridan, New York police man, former champion discus thrower and holder of the title of the world's best all-around athlete, has decided to drop out of athletics. He claims sport interferes with his job.

Kid Williams, the Baltimore batman, has strengthened his claim to a championship by knocking out Young Diggins, the flashy Philadelphia.

Mathewson is away in better shape this spring, with his ball club playing

The Theatre

At Myers' opera house this week the Winninger Players are presenting to Janesville audiences a great variety of plays, mingling comedy with the serious, farce with pathos, and quaint characterization with modern types of every day life. In "The Ecstasy" a striking picture of the great Northwest was given; "The Man of the Hour" depicted political conditions common to the entire country; tomorrow night, "Billy," a screamingly funny farce will tell a story new and original in the world of humor. Friday night, "The Return of Eve," an exquisite fantasy clothed in delightful high comedy will be given. Saturday night comedy drama holds the boards and Sunday night, "Our New Minister," furnishes wholesome amusement for every class of theatre goer. To-night "Sapho," a dramatization from the French of Alphonse Daudet will be given, convincing interpretation.

Still Demand for Flints.
Millions of flints are produced annually in England by "knappers," who use much the same tools and work in much the same manner as did the men of the Neolithic age. The flints go to Africa, South America and China. Flintlock muskets are still used by many negroes in the depths of Africa, and shipments of the bits of stone find ready market in the benighted regions.

First to Practice Palmistry.
Gypsies introduced the practice of palmistry into England. This appears from a statute of 1531 called an "Acte concerning Egyptians," which recites that "afore this tyme diverse and many outlandyshe People, callinge themselves Egyptians, using no crafte nor faicte of marchaundysse, have comen into this Realme and gone from Shire to Shire and Place to Place, and used greute subtilty and crafty meanes to decyve the people that they by palmestrie could tell monnes and womens fortunes, and have by crafte and subtilty decyved the people of their money."

Here an official receipt is given for the rat, which entitles the holder to 5 sen, and so the plague is combated and the people protected against foul epidemics."

THE SITUATION.

No matter who is named as chief of police by the Fire and Police commission and sanctioned by the council, the same conditions that forced George M. Appleby to tender his resignation will exist. No matter how strong and courageous a man is chosen to head the Janesville police department he will fail unless given the support of citizens, the backing of the Fire and Police commission and mayor and council, and of the members of the police department itself.

Ever since Appleby was elected chief by the Fire and Police commission five years ago last April, he has had to contend with numerous petty annoyances, continual hampering of the working of his department and internal discord. Refused recognition by the council, the right of the Fire and Police commission to name the chief was carried through all the courts until the supreme court finally gave a decision favorable to his interests.

Meanwhile the pros and cons of the question under dispute brought about discord in the police department itself, petty jealousies arose and unfortunately citizens and city officials took sides on the question, making it harder than ever to administer justice. This has continued during his entire five years of service and while other branches of the city administration have been increased as to efficiency to meet the demands of the times, the police department has been further handicapped by being deprived of the patrol wagon horse, failure to install police a telephone system, and recommendations of the chief have been tabled by various councils with scant courtesy.

The loss of the patrol wagon horse was perhaps one of the worst handicaps and the reason for such action is hard to see. Previous street commissioners, who have done excellent work on less than a third of the salary of the present official, have furnished their own steeds though the city has paid for their keep. However, it was thought necessary to cripple the police department by depriving them of their horse to accommodate this city official's department.

Beloit furnishes its chief with a patrol wagon and horse a personal horse for his own use, or for that of other officers sent on hurried calls, a motorcycle policeman to answer calls to outskirts of the city and watching for speeding autos and motorcycles, and an ambulatory patrol. This last named vehicle is not needed in Janesville but the other items are most essential.

Janesville has none of these equipments. The horses Mr. Appleby has been driving about the city from time to time have been loaned to him personally by private citizens. There has been no motorcycle for use of the officers and more recently no horse for the patrol wagon. True, a motion was passed at a recent council meeting that a horse be purchased, but thus far none has been procured. Beloit has a flashlight system for its officers at night so they can be quickly located and will call up the station immediately to know what is wanted. Janesville has none. It has not even had enough men to have a night and day service and the night officers have been forced to rely upon the kindness of the operators in the two telephone offices to notify them. If they were wanted in any particular locality, off their beats, after midnight.

It is all right to criticize a department and its members, but back of it all lies the blame. It is not so much what the men have not done as the fact they have not the proper equipment to work with. You would not expect a carpenter to build a house without tools or material. If you want efficient service, careful administration of the laws and ordinances then the men entrusted with such work should be given proper tools to work with.

Whoever is named as chief should be given the hearty support of citizens and city officials and properly equipped for service. It is a hard place to fill at best and a harder one to fill with the support of everyone for the man to be chosen to fill this position.

CONTRABAND OF WAR.

War is discussed in all its various types at peace conferences held at different times in various parts of the country but it remained for the Monrovia conference on international peace to pass the following striking resolution, according to the "Wall Street Journal," the most authoritative of newspapers.

"Whereas, wars are now largely maintained by financial loans negotiated by belligerents in neutral countries, and by arms and ammunition purchased by belligerents in neutral countries, therefore be it

"Resolved, That we call upon the United States government to use its utmost endeavors to secure an international agreement prohibiting the making of loans or the furnishing of arms by the citizens of any country to a government or party that is actually engaged in war or in making active preparations for an anticipated war, as being in violation of neutrality."

This is a suggestion of far-reaching consequence. It is not altogether altruistic, and the source from which it comes is significant. Between this time and the third Hague conference in 1915 the subject should be debated fully. There are difficulties in the way; but the powerful influence which finance can exercise over war, as in the relations between Austria and the Balkan states, and the more remote, Agadir incident, where, according to so sane an authority as Sir Edward Grey, war was at one time a matter of twenty-four hours, was so great that the possibility of organizing this influence in the interests of international arbitration and good will demands the earnest consideration of all thinking men.

"Making active preparations for an anticipated war," is a wide phrase, and it is not easy to cover expenditures upon armaments, although, according to some authorities somewhat lacking in the sense of humor, these are really active preparations for anticipated peace. When a nation borrows for war purposes, the proceeds of the loan do not go to the belligerent nation, but, as in the case of Japan, to that nation's creditors, in payment for arms and other supplies. A loan is an elastic term and can take many forms. Great Britain and France, for instance, could sell treasury bills, which would be readily taken by the discount merchants of all nations, where Germany might have to resort to direct borrowing.

It may be taken that German opposition, and that of other countries, in a like position, would be strongly against this proposal, where Great Britain and France might support the suggestion of the American delegates to The Hague. It would be said, in fact, that such a plan would give to a wealthy nation the power of bullying a poor one, and this aspect of the case will have to be thoroughly considered.

This is not to throw obstacles in the way of an idea with promising germs of usefulness, but to point out the obstacles to be avoided. With the idea and principle thoughtful men will be in sympathy, and by discussion, will seek to make it practicable. The movement should go on, and criticism should be of the kind which does not obstruct a progress which must necessarily be difficult at the start, but rather in the nature of placing blocks under the wheels, to prevent them from sliding back and losing ground already gained.

PARTY RE-ORGANIZATION.

The re-organization of the republican party is just now being discussed by the leaders of all factions, with a view to getting together on some common ground. While the conservative and Bull Moose element represent the two strong factions, the La Follette contingency, styling itself the original progressives, is in sympathy with neither, and yet strong enough to be reckoned with.

From present appearances the time is not yet ripe for the badly democratized forces of the old republican party to get together and bury factional differences. There is no issue, which calls for immediate action, and none likely to appear on the surface until one is forced upon the country by the democratic administration.

The democratic party enjoys a record of failure, and the chances for success at the present time are not flattering. The tariff issue has always been a boneyard issue, for the party in power, and from present indications it will prove the undoing of the present administration.

Of course no patriotic California woman would think of appearing at breakfast in a kimono. This Jap war scare may have a good effect upon some households after all if it can banish that garment from the household.

They say a lot about Senator Lewis of Illinois and his pink whiskers, but no pie has yet written any verses on Janesville's city official hirsute decorations of the same hue.

April was a dry month and the wise old saws said May would also be dry because it was a dry moon, but thus far it has been wet enough to satisfy even the frogs.

This state fair proposition is still alive and despite all Milwaukee's talk of fairness they tried to bottle every city in the state which seeks it.

At last grape juice has come into its own and the sale of this drink during the coming summer will be increased.

If you want to put the president of the United States into a hole you must first catch the president.

If Mr. Bryan has his way the secretary of war will become the secretary of peace.

Meanwhile California refuses to put a little olive oil on the troubled waters.

Keep watch of what a grim destroyer the average canoe really is.

Outside of that, he is doubtless all right.

A Bohemian is a man who knows how to eat spaghetti without getting it on the floor or over into the next flat.

There are a few millionaires in this country who are not running garages, but not very many.

It is stated by one of the truthful scribes in that locality that a Pittsburgh man may be cited before the probate judge for examination as to his sanity. It is said that he seems to be determined to buy and pay for a home instead of buying an automobile. His case is so unusual that it has attracted much attention.

WE NEED PLAIN HONESTY.

I wonder if it has ever occurred to most of our people that what this nation most needs is plain, old fashioned honesty.

Take almost any of the questions now before the country. If the principle of honesty were applied most of them would disappear.

It is true of the pure food question. If all manufacturers and dealers were honest this problem would solve itself.

It is true of the conservation question. The taking of the people's resources has been dishonest.

It is true in a degree of the railroad question. If watered stocks were eliminated the solution of the railroad problem would not be half so difficult. Stock watering is dishonest.

The same element is found in the trust issue. Stock watering and stock manipulation, unfair business methods and other kindred dishonest practices are the most formidable obstacles in the way of settling this matter.

Everywhere in elections, corruption in legislatures and city councils all involve the feature of dishonesty.

The same is true of the tariff. That issue will never be settled until it is settled on the lines of honesty.

We must get back to original standards. We are too prone to shrug our shoulders and overlook crooked actions. There is nothing the matter with this country except that we have given a few crooks too much voice. Honesty must become the national touchstone. It must be applied to small things as well as to great things.

Dishonesty constitutes the one big peril before this people. The question that should be asked concerning every candidate for public position is this: Is he honest? The same test should be applied to every proposed policy. Is it honest?

We cannot erect a great national structure out of timbers that have become rotten through dishonesty.

It is well that we face these things now, lest something worse befall us.

This matter is not partisan. It transcends party. The great bulk of our people of all parties are sound. They are morally right. They must assert themselves and insist on honesty in public and private life. Without that there is nothing.

Hereafter our business must be done on the street called Straight.

FAVORS JANESVILLE AS A HEADQUARTERS FOR SCHOOL SYSTEM

Professor R. F. Beardsley intends to locate Beardsley System of Manual Training Instruction in This City.

Professor R. F. Beardsley of Chicago is in the city in the interest of establishing in Janesville the headquarters for the Beardsley system of manual training. Mr. Beardsley was at the head of this department for a dozen years in Chicago during the administration of Superintendents Lane and Andrews.

This system is now being handled by the School Service association, incorporated, with offices at 223 West Lake street, Chicago. Mr. Beardsley has devoted the past three years and a liberal amount of money to developing it.

The system is now in use at Delavan, Elkhorn, La Crosse and Berlin, and quite generally adopted in Minnesota and Indiana. The work has largely been carried on by correspondence and many teachers have availed themselves of Prof. Beardsley's instructions. The company has decided to enlarge its scope of activities and is now looking for a location outside of Chicago, and Janesville is being considered for the purpose. A block can be sold to the enterprise and secured, and it will do more to put Janesville on the map than any industry which might be considered. This system is designed for the grades and is of vital interest to the great army of boys and girls who never enter the high school. It includes a series of illustrated lessons, prepared by Professor Beardsley, which are so simple that any child can grasp them, and they include all branches of industrial life for both boys and girls. The professor will be in the city for a day or two, and an effort is being made to induce him to locate here and make Janesville his headquarters.

FARMERS MAKE PLEA OF NOLO CONTENDERE

Two Charged With Selling Unsanitary Milk Dismissed on Payment Of Costs—Explain The Circumstances.

J. Martin and D. Connell, the two town of Rock farmers who were brought before Judge Fifield last Wednesday on the complaint of E. Williams, a state dairy inspector, who charged that they had in their possession unsanitary milk that was unsanitary and impure, this morning entered through their attorney Thomas S. Nolan, a plea of nolo contendere and the case against them was dismissed and no fine imposed. The settlement was entirely satisfactory to the inspector, who although not present, informed District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie to that effect.

According to the stories told by Martin and Connell they are hardly accountable for the dust and impurities found in the milk by the inspector. In accordance with the wishes of the cheesemaker they did not cover up some of the cheesemaking process, claiming that covers prevented the escape of gas from the milk and made his work difficult. On the night before the inspector visited the cheese factory there was a hard wind storm so severe that it blew down some willow trees and a corn crib nearby and considerable dirt was blown into the cans which stood in a cooling tank. Strainers were used before the milk was delivered to the city. The inspector told the cheesemaker he could receive and use his milk, and feels aggrieved that he should be hauled into court if his milk is good enough to use for cheesemaking.

Observations taken at 8 a. m., 75th meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isobars (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 50° and 100°. Clear; partly cloudy; cloudy; rain; snow; report missing. Arrows fly with the wind. The barometric depression that has caused the rains of the past two days is now passing over Wisconsin, in its slow drift toward the Atlantic coast. It has been attended by rainfall throughout much of the interior of the country, heavy rainfalls occurred in Wisconsin and adjacent states.

It is fair in the Atlantic coast states, and throughout the Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain states. It is warmer in the Mississippi valley, but continues cool in the high regions of the west. Frosts and freezing temperatures are reported in the higher regions of Wyoming and western South Dakota.

After the passage of the disturbance now in the lake region several days of fair weather should prevail, as there is no other marked disturbance on the weather map today.

GEORGIA BOY GIVEN LONG PRISON TERM FOR STEALING BOTTLE OF SODA MAY BE RELEASED SOON; INDIGNATION COUNTRY-WIDE

Fulton County Industrial Farm and Ollie Taylor.

Following close upon an agitation that has been country-wide, the announcement comes from Atlanta, Georgia, that Ollie Taylor, eleven-year-old boy who was sentenced to spend the remaining years of his minority at the Fulton county industrial farm, because he stole a 5-cent bottle of soda water, will probably be released this year.

Eleven years ago Fulton county, Georgia, went into the business of "making over" bad boys. The profits have been enormous—not in dollars and cents, perhaps, but in good citizenship. This business is conducted at the Fulton county industrial farm at Haneville, about eight miles south of Atlanta. There are 104 boys on the farm at present. The superintendent is T. A. E. Means, a former Confederate soldier.

"One year is generally enough for the average boy," said Superintendent Means. "We paroled sixty-four last year, and will parole Ollie Taylor as soon as he has shown a readiness to forget old associations and learn good, new, clean habits of living."

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

DOES A COLLEGE EDUCATION PAY?

I AM SOMETIMES asked by letter friends, "Does it pay to send a boy or girl to college?"

Being a Yankee, I always answer that question by two others. In the first place, what is the cost going to be? There are prices too high to pay. For instance, if it is going to include four years of unremitting self-denial for the rest of the family, and four years of combined study and attempts at self-support for the student, that may be too high a price, especially if the student's health is not of the best. I say "may" because this is pre-eminently a matter in which circumstances alter cases.

Secondly, in what coin do you expect payment to be made? If you expect that a college education will surely increase the earning powers of your son or daughter to an extent commensurate with the investment of time and money which is being made, you will probably be disappointed.

This is especially true if you expect an immediate payment. The graduate of the ordinary classical course in any college is prepared for just one profession—that of teaching. That means that these graduates must either enter that over-crowded field, and start at the small salary which such over-crowding causes; or that they must spend the first time in making more specific preparation for some other profession, or that they must start at the bottom of some business or profession, receiving approximately the same wage at which a high school graduate would start.

As a rule the college graduate rises much more rapidly and ultimately receives a higher salary, but this is not always true by any means, and if the graduate is a girl she is extremely likely to marry before receiving any financial return for her investment.

On the other hand, if you are willing that part of your payment shall be a broader outlook on life, a larger capacity for intellectual enjoyment, a better standard of living, a handful of precious friendships, and a heartful of golden memories for your son or daughter, you will probably find that a college education pays.

Do not think I am disparaging a college education. I would be the last to do that, but I do believe that many fathers and mothers expect too much financial return and are sadly disappointed.

Until our colleges contain specific courses which do actually prepare for some business or profession, it is inevitable that there can seldom be a full financial return for the time and money invested. Whether it is best that our colleges should take on such specific courses is quite another question, and one I am not qualified to discuss, though I must say I have a very strong opinion in the matter.

In the meantime, let the fathers and mothers who want to know if a college education pays, digest the following: "A college education is not to teach one to make a living, but to make a life."

mother knows all about it. (3) Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Please tell me on what finger an engagement ring should go; also what hand? (2) Should a girl go out when her parents object? (3) What is a nice present for a gentleman? (4) I am five feet three inches high. Is that a good height for a woman or tell me what is the right height?

WHITE FAWN.
(1) The third finger on the left hand. (2) It depends. If she is quite young she should obey her parents without question. If she is older, she should ask her own good sense whether they have reason on their side or not, and govern herself accordingly. (3) A man doesn't like to get presents from a girl. Your good wishes are the nicest present for a man. (4) That is a nice height—anywhere from that to five feet seven or eight.

LITTLE THINGS AS AIDS.

If grease is spilled on the kitchen floor, pour cold water on it immediately. This will harden it and prevent it from soaking in the floor. Then scrape it off with a knife.

A little turpentine put into the boiler in which the clothes are boiled will whiten them.

Always hang a broom, and when using it turn often to keep the straw from spreading. Dip on wash day in the hot suds and dry.

A pinch of salt added to the whites of eggs will cause them to whip better.

Always keep a supply of soft tissue paper or paper towels at hand to wipe the hands, greasy dishes and to grease pans when baking.

A bit of soda put on grease spots and moistened will help when scrubbing the floor.

Ground caraway seed is a nice change for spice in a cake. A few nuts added to cookies make them quite a fancy cake.

A teaspoonful of flour of sulphur dipped in hot milk is very good for a sore throat.

Oil of lavender is a fine odor to use in any room and a bit put into the book case will keep books from molding. If the cases are shut for any length of time.

Put a little sand in the bottom of vases that are inclined to be bit heavy.

Boiled flaxseed strained and flavored with lemon juice and sugar is a splendid cough remedy.

Rub a little lard on the drawer that sticks.

Use lemon juice on mildew stains. Mildew is a plant and it must be killed to cease its growth.

Often a dress which is much faded may be restored by hanging in the dark for a few months.

Chloride of lime is good to be sprinkled in the cellar. Rats will not go near it.

There are many seeds and nuts which are full of oil and make a food that is both well flavored and nutritious.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

Fruits can be spiced and not appear discolored by using one drop of oil (purchased at your druggist) on any favor desired. To 1-2 quarts of fruit.

When oranges are to be sliced, pour boiling water on them and let them stand two minutes. The white lining will come away with the skin. To make tablecloths wear longer, fold in three one week and in four the next. If folded the same way week after week the fold will wear into holes while the rest of the cloth is still good.

The Table.
Creamed Eggs—Take two table-spoonfuls of butter, two table-spoonfuls of flour, one pint of milk, four eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper, half a small onion, six slices of toast, boil the eggs twenty minutes, and lay them in cold water; when cold, remove the shells and cut each egg into six pieces. Cut the onion fine. Place the butter in a small frying pan, and when it is hot slowly cook the onion. Bring to a light yellow hue, taking care, however, not to brown either the butter or the onion at all. Remove the onion, add the flour and stir until the paste is smooth and thick. Draw the pan back, add the milk, add the milk, return to the heat and when the sauce boils, put in the salt, pepper and eggs. As soon as the eggs are well heated, turn all out upon slices of buttered toast, and serve at once. A few drops of onion juice may be used instead of the cooked onion, thus facilitating the work somewhat.

Cucumbers and Place—Peel two cucumbers and place them in cold water to become crisp. Do not use salt in the water, as it sometimes recommended, as it wilts them and makes them indigestible. Slice and arrange them in a bed of crisp lettuce leaves. Wash one large cucumber, cut two slices from it, and remove the centers to form rings. Cut down the skin of the cucumbers to form petals, place one ring outside of the other inside the peel. Put it in the center of the sliced cucumbers and serve with French dressing.

Horseradish Sauce—Melt one table-spoonful of butter, add one table-spoonful of flour, and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually while stirring constantly, one-half cupful of milk and chicken stock. Bring to the boiling point and then cool. Freeze slightly and add two thirds cupful of heavy cream, beaten until stiff, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a few grains of pepper, two table-spoonfuls of vinegar, and one-fourth cupful of grated horseradish root. Continue the freezing until the mixture is of the consistency of a mush. Here is an excellent place to use a baby's rubber. Draw the pan back, add the milk, return to the heat and when the sauce boils, put in the salt, pepper and eggs. As soon as the eggs are well heated, turn all out

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

Almost every magazine we open nowadays contains some advice, wise and otherwise, to women on nearly every known subject under the sun. For the most part it's good. It appeals to one's reason. Many women adopt it and profit thereby.

Did you ever notice what a dearth of advice there is for the men?

I hasten to add that I realize that a man is trained for his life's work, which is not often the case with women. That may account for it. However, occasionally it might be a good plan to run on the sporting page of course a few paragraphs of advice to his majesty, Mr. Man.

If one was sure he would read it after partaking of a good dinner, one might muster up enough courage to ask him in the twenty years of his married life he had always tried to be a man?

If he had been patient, kind and merciful in his dealings with his wife and family, if he had lived as he would like his wife and children to live, if in all things, while in his own home he had tried to be fair and square?

If he was as careful to retain his wife's good opinion, and respect of him as he was to obtain and keep the opinion of the people at large?

And finally backing up a bit, you might sneakingly ask him, if he belonged to that despicable class of men whose motto is, "Never run after a street car or a woman, there'll be another one along in three minutes," or if he belonged to that desirable class of splendid American men who by their clean, vigorous way of living, by their innate honesty and strength of purpose, stand for what is every good woman, most admired in every good man, a man, who by his plain, everyday manliness, wins a place in the world for his wife and their "wee ones," who today, after twenty years of married life, comes joyfully home at the close of day as sure of a welcome as lie was when you were both young, and had so much to learn, a man, who because he has been so busy being a man, in all the world's troubles, has had no time for meanness or any kind, and consequently, the one man in the world, who, coming into your home, can cause your heart to beat again in that old-fashioned, wholly happy way, if it did when first he looked into your eyes.

A Free Prescription You Can Prepare At Your Own Home

Many women take perfect care of their face and clothes, yet neglect their hands. Rough red hands are almost as unattractive as untidy teeth. It is a simple, easy matter to keep your hands smooth and beautiful. The following prescription, which you can compound at your own home, is responsible for the marvelous instantaneous results it gives.

Get from your druggist one ounce of Kulu Compound. Put it in a two-ounce bottle; add a quarter of an ounce of witch hazel, all with water and shake well.

You will be surprised at the result when applied to your hands, arms, face, neck or shoulders. Blemishes of every kind disappear as if by magic. Freckles, rough skin, coarse pores, yield instantly to this application. It is deliciously cool and soothing and is not affected by perspiration. It will not rub off. ## HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By Mrs. LIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a boy of nineteen and have been going with a girl for over a year. She says she loves me and I truly love her. (2) Can you tell me where is a good place to go this summer for a vacation for about two weeks and how many suits it would be necessary to carry. (3) I have been thinking of joining the navy. What would be your advice? 23.3.12.

(1) I hope you will wait until you are twenty-one and able to provide a good home before you marry. If you really love the girl and she loves you, you will both be better off.

(2) Ask the editor of this paper to advise you about the place. Take a suit for dress-up and a suit for roughing it and a suit for everyday. Take a bathing suit if you are near the water. (3) It wouldn't be wise for you to join the navy if you expect to marry soon. Otherwise it would be good training for you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been keeping company with a young man for fourteen months and I know that I love him, but I am about as much taken by him as I hate to go on the street with him. Do you think if we were to marry I could overcome my pride in that respect? (2) What are some appropriate colors for all girls to wear? (3) How long should a couple keep company (after they are engaged) before being married? LEONA.

(1) You can't really love him, for if you did and you know he is a good man, you would never allow a difference in height to be a matter of pride. It's the worth of the man, not his size, that makes a good husband. (2) Checks and plaids are Pimpily? Well Don't Be!

People Notice It. Drive Them off With Olive Tablets.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pimples will vanish after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Nothing ever cleansed the blood, the bowels and the liver like Olive Tablets.

Olive Tablets are the only successful substitute for calomel—they oil the bowels; there's never any sickness or pain after taking them.

Olive Tablets are all that calomel does and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are made of pure vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result.

Try them. Take one nightly for a week. Then look at yourself in the glass and see how you feel. 10c and 25c per box.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

PERICLES.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

PERICLES is the first name of an Athenian statesman and a great leader of his people who was born 495 B. C. and died several years after his birth. His recent photographs show Pericles in a dignified attitude and the pointed beard which he wore a woman he ran for office. People always called Pericles by his maiden name, as his parents ran out of the Greek alphabet when about to christen him.

It was said of Pericles that he could think deeper and faster on a half-mile track than any high school professor in Athens. He had a wonderful mind of the cone clutch type, and could see a truth long before it turned the corner. One of his favorite pastimes was to sit down in some secluded spot and breathe things over in a leafy condition at the time Pericles entered politics. An old standpatter named Cimón had subsidized the Athenian newspaper with the aid of the county printing, and nobody could hitch his team in the Parthenon or build a kangaroo on the Acropolis without first lubricating Cimón's itching palm. Pericles called several boob moose together and had himself nominated for mayor on the Citizens' ticket, after which he sharpened up his beard and made a speaking campaign in every ward. He was triumphantly elected, and banished Cimón immediately after appointing a new chairman of the street committee.

For several years Pericles did not have any time to think of new epigrams for use in our school books, as he was kept busy driving off the Spartans, Macedonians and other insects. He remained on the high was said to have introduced into the wave of popularity until 430 also B. C., when an epidemic of the Dutch Cough broke out in Athens and other countries by engaging German hired girl. The enraged populace deposed Pericles and destroyed some of his best axioms, but he was later restored to prominence and died with the rank of brigadier general. His death was caused by coming in contact with a sample copy of the Asiatic cholera.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON.

The man who early goes to bed, instead of painting landscapes red assisted by a deuilola, until the roosters hail the dawn, will rise refreshed at break of day, and sing a joyous roundelay. His mouth is clean, his eyes are bright, he has a horse's appetite and to his maw he gaily takes a half a quire of buckwheat cakes, and ham and SANE eggs and bread and SYSTEM cheese, and sundry other things like these. Then to his daily toil he goes, all full of vim from crown to toes. He works so well his boss observes: "I'm surely mashed upon your curves, and so, beginning with today, I'll add a guilcher to your pay." The man who paints the village red instead of going to his bed at seven minutes after ten, on waking thinks a setting hen has used his mouth three weeks or more; his eyes are red, his stomach sore, he cannot eat the wholesome steak, the scrambled egg or buckwheat cake, but sadly chews a pickled bean and takes a drink of kerosene. He does his task in languid way, and ere he's put in half a day, the boss exclaims: "You make me tired! Put on your hat and go—you're fired!" If you would hold a good job down, be wise—let others paint the town.

THE DAUGHTER OF DAVID KERR

By
HARRY KING TOOTLE

"Was it accident?" he made bold to ask.

"Wasn't it? You pretended it was." Then the mischievous little spirit that ruled her tongue forced her to say, "I don't blame you; I think Annabel Hitchcock is a beautiful girl. We all know you were crazy about her."

"Was it?" Rising infection.

"Weren't you?" Also rising infection.

"I'll admit I followed your party," he conceded.

"Now we're getting at the truth of the matter," she replied triumphantly. She felt she was teasing him, and she enjoyed it. "But why didn't you come on to Paris as you promised us? I'd like to know why we suddenly lost you. Was it another girl even prettier than Annabel?"

He did not join her when she laughed at the picture she had painted. All the light joyousness, the first which had been his since he had come to Belmont, died out of his face as he answered:

"After the Rhine I had hoped to meet you in Paris again. I looked forward to it as the beginning of another happy time. And then, in London, I received a cable—my mother was dying."

"No," protested the girl, her eyes wide with pity.

"I had just time to catch the express for Liverpool that would put me aboard a liner an hour before she sailed. Miss Kerr, I know I thought of Paris, but things all seemed blurred to me, and so the message I had planned to you—not to Miss Hitchcock—was never sent."

"My poor friend."

"I reached America too late."

"I'm so sorry," she sighed.

He had told the whole story. There was nothing more to say.

Both sat gazing into the open fire, busy with the thoughts of life and death. At last Gloria said quietly, with no more movement than if her thoughts had of themselves become vocal:

"Tell me of your mother. I never knew my mother, and so I envy you. You loved her?"

"I loved her," he began. Of his own affairs he seldom spoke, yet here was one who by her very presence made him glad to tell his story, and glad that it was a story he could tell with pride. "Son never loved mother more. And never did a son owe a mother more than I owed mine. I never knew my father. He was a good man, but not provident. When he died, mother found she had to support herself and me, an only child. O Miss Kerr, if you knew the bitterness of that struggle as I know it your heart would ache, too, at thought of it."

He paused, but something clutched at Gloria's throat. She could not speak.

"If mother could have a fault, it was her pride of me. I suppose when all the things she had planned for herself came to naught at my father's death she centered everything on me. It wasn't right, of course, because I wasn't worth it, but I tried, always tried to be worthy of that pride. And when she came to die—she wrote—"

"He couldn't go on, and Gloria, respecting his grief, was silent, too."

"I'm so glad she lived to see it all come true," Gloria said finally in a low tone. "It makes me think of what sacrifices my father has made for me. Just because he loved me and wanted me to have everything, he has given up what joy I might have been to him. Your story has taught me what I owe to him."

At this a sudden pain shot through the man's heart. It made him pledge himself before heaven to protect her from the truth.

"My mother died when I was a baby, just as your father did," she explained wistfully. "And, as I told you, I envy you your mother. I wish you had written me. I could have at least sent my sympathy."

Now, Gloria understood. All that year her thoughts had presented him other than in the true light.

"I wrote to you," he said gravely, "as soon as I wrote to anyone. I didn't know your address, and ventured letters at Brown, Shipley's in London, and the American Express company in Paris. I had heard you speak of both places, I thought. Both letters came back."

"Give them to me. I want to keep them. We left Paris before you wrote, and hurried to Japan. Our mail was sent in care of Cook's. What did you do—afterward?"

"I took a long rest. There was not a relative to share my sorrow with me. Now that I've come down out of the mountains and taken stock of life I find I haven't a soul in the world."

"Don't say that, Joe." She felt irresistibly drawn to him and put forth her hand and laid it on his sympathetically. He turned his own and let hers nestle within it.

"You're still the same Gloria."

"A year isn't so long a time."

And so they sat, with never a word to say, just that hand clasp of silent sympathy as they gazed into the fire.

CHAPTER VI.

In the drawing-room, Kerr and Gilbert were just beginning a conversation which had for its theme the new turn affairs had taken, when Dr. Hayes passed through the hall on his way out with his wife. Sam Hayes was a member of the ring's inner shrine, and when the opportunity arose for what was termed a quick cleanup, he was always a member of the syndicate. Therefore, the die having been cast, the judge called him in and announced the determination to push the franchise, a deal with which the corner was already familiar. Far more than for any other reason Kerr was always willing to include him because his Belmont connections were so strong that he really lent an air of respectability to any undertaking.

"We are going to put a line to the stock yards down Maple avenue, Sam," began the attorney.

"So it's settled, is it?"

"Yes. You remember that vacant tract beyond Benton Park? The one that the Belden Brothers are thinking of cutting up for a residence addition? Well, you can't build a house in a mile of it when the road's through there, but it'll be worth a great deal more for factory sites."

"You'll have railroad connections, see?" explained Kerr.

"What's doing?" asked Sam, always keen for a dollar.

"Get an option on it," continued Gilbert, "and we'll cash in big."

"How long an option?"

"The attorney looked at Kerr.

"Sixty days," said the latter.

"In that time we can run the franchise through the council, and when that's done, any bank'll lend us the money to take over the property."

"Hayes went out to rejoin his wife, after promising to take the matter up in the morning."

Gilbert was just on the point of beginning a discussion of Gloria's future when a reporter from the Banner was announced.

"I'll come out to see him," said the lawyer, rising.

"No," objected Kerr, "have him in. I want to see him, too."

So Mr. James Winthrop, the young political reporter for the Belmont Banner, was admitted.

Winthrop, like the usual run of star reporters in a town the size of Belmont, was not only a shrewd young American, but he was also well aware of his great shrewdness. He had made as many political prognostications as any young man in the country, and they were quite as misleading in the main as were any of the others. Being on the machine paper and a loyal reporter, it followed as of course that he was a loyal machine man. Old Jerry Winthrop, the editor, was a distant relative, but friendly enough and interested enough in the youth to explain to him some of the turnings of the political wheels.

When Winthrop saw Kerr cased with his legal adviser he could not suppress a whistle of surprise.

"Evening, judge. Good evening, Mr. Kerr."

"How are you, Jim?" said Gilbert. The boss merely nodded an acknowledgment of the greeting. "What can I do for you?"

"Some stockyard terminal rumors in the air, judge; just rumors, and I can't find out a thing."

"I haven't heard a thing about it," the lawyer assured him. Then to Kerr, "Have you?"

"Not a word," answered the boss.

"Where did you get it?" queried Gilbert.

"Floating 'round town. I met Mr. Kendall last night going to the station," but he wouldn't talk. I know that the surveyors have been outright as a home for you, but as it stands it is no place for a young lady in society; especially, since you want me to be plain spoken, no place for a young lady who has had such advantages as your daughter."

"Exactly, exactly," asserted Kerr. He had seen that, and it had been one of the thorns in his flesh all day.

Mrs. Gilbert was quick to see that it was the only thing to be done. She had become as much interested in Gloria as had her husband, and now she added her own invitation to his.

"The judge has expressed my own ideas exactly," she said. "Mr. Kerr, you must let her come to us. We have fallen in love with her already."

"Have you, ma'am?" Kerr asked. "Then I'm awfully glad."

"Make the invitation for a month," Gilbert directed, "and then we can ask her to stay on."

"I'll do nothing of the kind," said his wife airily, as she started on what was to her a pleasant errand; "I'll ask her for the rest of her natural life, and if she wants to stay that long she's welcome."

When Mr. Kendall said he'd been here to dinner, Billy, he's our city editor, told me to see you."

Gilbert turned to Kerr. The leader was a man of few words. He disposed of the matter under discussion with one sentence.

WANTS UNCLE SAM TO GIVE AWAY LAND

Representative Stephens and map showing territory he would cede to Great Britain.

Representative Stephens of Texas has introduced a resolution in the lower house of congress proposing to cede to Great Britain the coast strip of southeastern Alaska, 580 miles long and in some places eight or ten miles wide. The resolution, which was introduced at the request of the Universal Peace Union, of Philadelphia, suggests that "such a move would set an example in the policy of mutual concession that would constitute a glorious achievement in history."

Too Terrible to Describe. Tortured by It Since Childhood.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12, 1913.—"Since early childhood I have suffered untold misery with that terrible torture eczema, on the backs of my hands and fingers. I have spent hundreds of dollars on treatments and consultations and bought every known remedy, but could not be cured. My hands would crack open, oft times showing the ligaments, and the skin would stick to the inside of my gloves. The itching was too terrible to describe and sleep was possible only when in an exhausted condition. This winter I had given up all hope of ever finding a cure, when I heard of Resinol and purchased some. The results were perfectly marvelous. I used three bars of Resinol Ointment, with Resinol Soap, and my hands are perfectly cured. I cannot find words what it has done for me. I wish everyone needing relief from that stubborn and torturing affliction would give Resinol a trial. I shall be pleased to answer any inquiries." (Signed) Mrs. Harry O. Jarboe, 621 E. St. N. W., Washington, D. C.

You can try Resinol free for skin eruptions, pimples, dandruff, stubborn sores, boils, or piles. Sold by practically every druggist, but for trial write to Dept. 248, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

"A blue one and a white one, a white one and a blue one. A loose one and a tight one—And a small one for the crew!"

"Innocent," he said through his nose, "a man has been in this room; smell smoke!"

"No, no!" she cried. "No, no!" she was dressed in a lemon panner counterstitched with Irish sagas. "Well, perhaps it was someone in he family that lived here before we moved in," he said, and kissed her. There was a low, hoarse cry, made by him.

"It's true! It's true!" he shouted, repeating himself as he always did when he felt a passion coming on. "I can taste smoke on your ruby lips!"

"Impossible!" she quavered. Kissing herself, she tasted it, too. She paled from the nose up.

"This is the end!" he hissed, and lunged her from him. She rebounded against the wall, for she was quite athletic.

And so they were divorced, and all because of a miserable tobacco-filled telephone booth and a smoke-saturated mouthpiece!

New Classifications Seeds and Plants

Garden and Flower Plants are things that require a quick sale. If they are to be sold at all a buyer must be found within a few days after they are old enough to transplant, else they will have grown too large.

There are many people in Janesville who make the sale of plants pay a considerable part of the expense of the garden; others there are who make no attempt to grow their own plants, depending altogether on buying.

Stop That Cough In A Minute Would you give morphine or chloroform to your baby or take it yourself? Of course not. Yet most patent cough cures contain one or both. They stop a cough in a minute, which is dangerous. A cough should be cured internally by healing the lungs, loosening the phlegm, throwing it out, which is done by coughing. Badger Cough Balsam does not contain morphine or chloroform. It is made by percolation from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It is safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Badger Cough Balsam is made by Mr. E. J. Egan, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist. Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts. 5-19-1f
